FRESH PROOFS OF FRAUD.

BRADY AND KELLOGG JOINED IN NEW STAR ROUTE INDICTMENTS.

Sorry Ontcome of the Telltale Price Drafts -Dorsey on the Stand Pleading Innecence and Contradicting Rerdell on All Points.

WASHINGTON, March 27,-This has not been a happy day for Senator Kellogg, who now finds himself linked with the Star route defendants in indictments of conspiracy to defraud the Government. He was confident to-day that for the third time he was to escape, but he finds himself bitterly disappointed. Twice has the Grand Jury refused to bring an indictment on Walsh's testimony, but now that Price adds his evidence the case is strong enough, the jury think, to warrant further legal investigation.
If Price has really decided to abandon his confederates and turn State's evidence the Government has secured a powerful ally, and the defendants are put in new jeopardy. Price is a shrewd man, and is not likely to lay himself open to such contradiction as Rerdell has done by testifying to matters on which he cannot be supported by indisputable facts. That the indietment is now found against Kellogg is due to his evidence, as it furnishes Walsh's story the corroboration that it needs. The Critic. which Brady testified he still owns, attempts to-night to make light of the new move, claiming that it is nothing more than an attempt to prejudice the minds of the jury in the pending case. A nervous tremor is clearly discernible in this loud whistling. No one knows better than Brady how serious and practical a matter this new presentation is.

The presentment of the Grand Jury was as

The United States agt. Thomas J. Brady for unlawfully receiving money and postal drafts to the amount of $5,000, while Second Assistant Postmaster-General, from James B. Price, as award for making a contract for mail service with Price on July 13, 1880, upon the Star route from Socorro to Silver City, New Mexico; against William Pitt Kellogy and Thomas J. Brady for conspiracy on April 17, 1880, with James B. Price to defraud the United April 17, 1880, with James B. Price to defraud the United States by means of false oaths and fraudulent allow-ances for expedition, and false and fraudulent claims to be made for increased pay for expe-dition on the post routes from Monroe to Shreve-port, in Louisiana, and San Antonio to Corpus Christi, in Texas, the said routes then being in the name of James B. Price as contractor, against Wm. Pitt Kellegg setting forth that on April 17, 1880, while a Senator from Louisism, he did unlawfully receive from James B. Price, contractor on the post routes from Monroe to Shrevenort. Louisiams, and San Antonio to Corpus Christi, Texas, a certain sum of money, Post Office drafts and a promissory note, together of the value of $29,000, for the service of procuring persuading, and inducing Thomas J. Brady, Second Assistant Fostmaster General, to award and allow to Price an increase of pay and compensation for carrying the mail with increased speed on and over each of the said routes, and corruptly influencing the action of the said Brady Shreni; and sgainst Brady for having on or about April 17, 1880, unlawfully received certain money, Post Office draits, and a note, together being of the value of $20,000, as compensation for the said sing to James B. Price a contract on each of the routes from Monroe to Shreveport, Louisies, and with increased speed and for Texas, and with increased speed and for the said with increased speed and for the said with increased speed and for the price Joseph Occhran, and J. W. Brady.

may ho keep queet and that he gave the $20,000 in Seminary seminimes teld amant that he gave the $20,000 in Brady, and at other times that he retained about $20,000 in Brady, and at other times that he retained about $20,000 in Brady and at other times that he ever gave a cheek to J. B. Bissell, though that gentleman says he did and Secretary Teller is so fully convinced of the fact that he has telegraphed to Belford congratulating him on his vindication. Dorsey is a man of violent and passionate temper, as appeared in the Tilley assault and in his published correspondence. He is carrying the same hasty temper into the witness box, and it is getting him into trouble. He is denying too much and too hastily, as he will find out on cross-examination. Brady was a much cooler witness, and benefited by his self-control.

Mr. Ingersoll asked Dorsey whether he had drawn any check for $7,000 upon Middleton & Co. in June, 1879, as described by Rerdell. He said that he drew a check for $7,500. It was given to Rerdell. (The check was shown and identified.) Witness did not draw the money on the check. The Court did not believe that his was the check referred to by Rerdell. Mr. Ingersoll argued that it was the check, and delared that Rerdell had forgotten the amount, and the facts that he endorsed it and drew the money. He purposed accounting for everycheck drawn by Dorsey on Middleton's bank. He asked leave to read the check to the jury.

Mr. Merrick maintained that it was not the check referred to.

Mr. Wilson argued that it was proper for the defence to contradict Rerdell by showing that Dorsey did not draw such a sum of money, and that not a cent of the money found its way into the possession of Brady. He proposed to show that lierdell got the $7,500 on that check.

Mr. Hilss said that, even if the defence accounted for every check drawn upon Middleton's bank. He had sworn that Dorsey often did that.

Mr. Ingersoll promised to produce everycheck and to account for every dolar. Let the prosecution consult with their witne

Mr. Carpenter—It will be possible, and will be The Court refused to allow the check to be put in evidence.

Dorsey continued that while it was possible that he had gone with Rerdell on June 27 to draw money from Middleton's, he did not believe that he had. He did not go to the Post Office and into Brady's room as described by Berdell, and did not pay money to Brady on that or any other occasion. He did not draw a check on Middleton & Co. for $6.500 in June.

Mr. Ingersoil referred to Rerdell's statement of the contents of a letter from Dorsey to Bessel, inviting Besler to take an interest in the business, showing its financial condition, and including an account of indebtedness to T. J.

B. Dorsey said there was not a grain of truth in the story; he had never written such a letter to anybody in the world, and never said The Court refused to allow the check to be that anything was to be paid to T. J. B. or any Post Office official.

Mr. Ingersoli then referred to Rerdell's statement that papers had been taken from his office while he was in jail. Mr. Dorsey and he had only entered that office twice: Rerdell was there on both occasions. The last time was upon Rerdell's invitation, after his release from jail. Rerdell was closing up his office, and packed up a bundle of papers which he took to Dorsey's house and left there. That bundle was still unfouched and unopened at the house. He never had a key to that office, and did not enter it while Rerdell was in jail.

Herdell's statement of the conversation at Willard's Hotel on July 12, 1882, when he was locked in and ordered to make another affidavit, was taken up. Dorsey said that some time in July, during the last trial, Rerdell attempted to blackmail Bosler. The witness went to Bosler's room at Willard's and found Rerdell there with Bosler. He was protesting to Bosler that the allogations that he (Rerdell) had gone over to the Government were untrue. He denied Rardell's statement of the conversation at Willard's Hotel, and declared that it was a blackmailing scheme on the part of Rerdell, who had threatened to have Bosler indicted and to go over to the Government Resler indicted and to go over to the Government of the conversation at Willard's Hotel, and declared that it was a blackmailing scheme on the part of Rerdell, who had threatened to have Bosler indicted and to go over to the Government. Respectively of the trial was the had offered any inducement. A letter dated July 5, 1882, from Rerdell to Dorsey was read. Rerdell wrote that he had been considering the step he was about to take for over a year. He had intended to put himself amount of the trial was. PATRICK EGAN AND LADY DIXIE.

The Land League's Trensurer Frees ble CHICAGO, March 27 .- In reply to the recently published charges of Lady Florence Dixie against Patrick Egan, Treasurer of the Land League, Mr. Egan gave his version of the controversy to-day. In her letter Lady Dixie asserted that she did not know Richard Piggott, and never had any correspondence with him. Mr. Egan points out that a pamphlet of eighty pages was placed in the hands of a Dublin printing house last September, containing the grossest possible charges against the Land League. It had a page introduction signed by Lady Dixie, but the remainder of the pamphlet was in the handwriting of Piggott, and proofs were sont to him. After a dozen or more copies had been printed. Lady Dixie became frightened at the array of charges and caused all the books to be destroyed and the types broken.

"Unfortunately for Lady Dixie," says Mr. Egan, "I have a copy of the pamphlet, and am aware that all her statements were taken from that book. In the face of these facts what becomes of her quibbie to the effect that she never met and does not know Piggott? In her letter she calls on me to prove my denial of her charges. As a matter of fact, she has no standing to attack the Land League at all. She has never subscribed a penny toward the fund, never pretended to have any sympathy with the Land League, and is not an Irish woman. was in the handwriting of Piggott, and proofs never pretended to have any sympathy with the Land League, and is not an Irish woman. She is not a daughter of the peer. Her recent fabrication about the bogus attack on her should show Americans how much, or rather, how little, value is to be placed on anything she says."

He then repeats the story already published to the effect that Piggott, as editor of the Irishman, told him (Egan) that Dublin Castle officials had offered £500 to him (Piggott) to publish fictitious statements of the Land League accounts in his paper. These statements Piggott offered to suppress for £300, which he (Egan) refused to give. These fittious statements from Dubin Castle, Mr. Egan asserts, are the same as those being promulgated by Lady Florence against the League.

KILLED BY THEIR MOTHER.

The Story of the Double Murder and Suicid in Herkimer on Sunday Night. UTICA, March 27.-At the inquest in Herkimer to-day, in the case of Mrs. Thomas Parkes, who killed her two children and herself on Sunday night, the following story of the tragedy was developed: Mrs. Parkes, who was only 25 years old, was the wife of Thomas Parkes of the firm of Barry, Parkes & Co.. grocers. She was married in Ilion, where her nusband was formerly employed by the Remingtons, and had two children, the eldest a little girl of 5 years and the other a 2-monthsher husband, and on Sunday evening they had some words because he punished the little girl for not going to bed when he ordered her to do so. Parkes then went out, and soon afterward Mrs. Parkes told Delia Bly, the servant, to run over to their next door neighbor's house and ask Mrs. Bull to come in, as she wished to see her. The girl was absent about five minutes, and when she returned Mrs. Bull was with her. They saw nothing of Mrs. Parkes, and Mrs. Bull called to her, and, looking into the bedroom, saw her lying in bed, between the children. She called to her, and, looking into the bedroom, saw her lying in bed, between the children. She quickly discovered that Mrs. Parkes was dead, and that the children had been shot through the head, but were yet alive, though unconscious. A revolver was grasped in the dead woman's hand, and there was a builet hole in her temple. She had shot herseif aimost exactiv as she had shot the children, but she had evidently died instantly, while they remained alive for several hours.

The shooting must have been done just before the girl belia returned with Mrs. Bull, for Policeman Hilts heard three pistol shots in Parkes's house, but before he got there Mrs. Bull and the servant had discovered what had happened and were screaming for help. A bottle of chloroterm and a bottle of laudanum were found in the bed, but the doctors who were called said that the bottles had not contained enough of the drug to kill the three persons, and it was interred that the revolver was resorted to to hasten the murderous work. Mrs. Parkes had evidently put the children in bed, then got in between them and, taking the revolver, shot them holding the weapon close to their heads, and turning over after shooting one in order to reach the other.

As soon as the police arrived search was begun for Mr. Parkes. He had said that he was going to the store to look out for the fires, but he was not there, and for three hours the search was continued. He was finally found about 11 o'clock by his partner, but refused to tell where he had been. He was almost crazed by the sight of his dead wife and dying children.

Mrs. Parkes was very highly esteemed by her acquaintances. Recently there had been talk of Parkes's alleged infidelity, and it is said he lately had a conversation with his wife or the subject, which did not result in putting her mind at rest.

Justice Smith Pinds that the Shooting of William H. Haverstick was Justifiable.

Mr. Cameron H. King led Mrs. Emma-Uhler through a crowd of spectators and lawyers in the Special Sessions court room yester-day afternoon to a seat beside her brother, George W. Conkling, Jr., and Police Justice Smith began his examination into the circumstances of the shooting of William Herbert Haverstick by Conkling in the Paris flats in West Twenty-third street. Several well-dressed women sat among the spectators and kept their eyes on Mrs. Uhier. She wore a walking suit of maroon velvet and a long sealskin dolman.

of maroon velvet and a long sealskin dolman. A brown veil was drawn closely over her face and turban hat. Diamonds were in her ears. Mr. King addressed the Court, saying that there was an entire absence of criminal intent on the prisoner's part in the killing of Haverstick. "If ever homicide was justifiable," said he, "it was this."

Assistant District Attorney Brady consented to the proposition to submit the depositions taken by Coroner Levy to the Court without the reëxamination of the witnesses.

Assistant District Attorney Brady urged that Conkling should be held for trial. The moment his speech was ended Justice Smith said:

"I find from the evidence that the defendant had reasonable grounds to infer an intention on the part of the slain to commit a great personal injury to him, and that there was imminent danger of the design being accomplished, and that, therefore, the homicide was justifiable. The defendant is discharged."

The spectators began to applaud, and were allowed togo on applanding for several minutes. No attempt was made to stop them. Conkling rose to join his sister, who had been led out of court while the lawyers were arguing. Mr. King introduced him to Mr. Brady, and they shook hands. Conkling and his sister went from the court to Mr. King's residence. They will set out for Keno in a few days.

In searching Haverstick's rooms in the Paris flats on Monday for papers which Mrs. Uhler had looked for unsuccessfully. Police Captain McElwain discovered a package of receipts showing that the furniture and carnets and other articles had been paid for by Mrs. Uhler. He also found a will dated San Francisco, Oct. 28, 1875, and signed by William H. Haverstick. It leaves all his property to his mother in California. Capt. McElwain says that Joseph B. Haverstick informed him that, in view of this will, he abandoned his claim to the property.

Harrisburg, March 27.—The committee intrusted with the investigation of Dukes's title to a seat in the House had a meeting this afternoon. Among the witnesses examined was State Treasurer Bailey, who handed to the committee the letters produced at the trial of Dukes in Fayette county. He said he had a letter in his possession, written by Dukes to Capt. Nutt, which had not been published, but the family did not desire to have it made public. He promised to furnish it to the committee with the understanding that its contents should not be revealed to any person except members of the committee. It is hinted that the letter reflects more severely on the character of Miss Nutt than the published letters. Cashier Bowman of the National Bank of Fayette county, who is expected to prove Dukes's handwriting, was unable to come here to-day. There is no doubt that Dukes's seat will be declared vacant within a few days, whether he makes his appearance or not.

END OF THE PRESS GAG BILL MADE ENTIRELY HARMLESS WHEN IT

REACHED THE ASSEMBLY. Railroad Beadhendism to be Discussed To-day -The War Against the Manhattan Road-Working to Secure an Early Adjournment ALBANY, March 27 .- Senator Koch's Libel bill was knocked in the head with neatness and despatch in the Assembly to-day. It came in from the Senate with other bills in the confusion of the closing minutes just before ad-journment, but found watchful members awaiting it. As soon as the Clerk announced it Col. M. C. Murphy was on his feet. In a loud voice that instantly commanded attention he moved the reference of the bill to the Judiciary Committee, with instructions to strike out the enacting clause. He briefly called attention to the scope of the bill, and denounced it as wrong in principle and wrong in intent. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Miller also pronounced the bill a dangerous and unwarranted attack on the liberty of the press, and the latter moved the previous question, while half a dozen members were on their feet seeking an attempt to speak against the bill. On a viva voce vote Col. Murphy's motion was carried without a dissenting voice. The bill thus died without the support of a friend in the Assembly. The bill would have been reported adversely by the House Judiciary Committee in any event, but Col. Murphy's way of disposing of it was swifter and more effective.

The motive that led to the introduction of this bill and its railroading through the Senate has not yet been made clear. The real author of the bill is said to be Senator Thomas of the Broome-Chenango district, and behind him is a lawyer, whose name is not given. Mr. Koch, unfortunately for his reputation, was induced to stand aponsor for the bill, which was undoubtedly a job in the interest of somebody who wanted to wreak personal spite. Some of the Senators are very sore over the summary treatment the bill got in the Assembly.

The Railroad Committees of the two Houses will meet in joint session in the Senate Chamber to-morrow afternoon to hear arguments on the bill prohibiting railroad companies from issuing free passes. Mr. Denew and his agents are defity working up opposition to the bill, and, after endeavoring to have it amended, they will probably strangle it in one House or the other. The amendment proposed by Mr. Denew asses to shippers. As every member of the Legislature would be a shipper of at least a carpet oag and a box of documents, it will be seen that Mr. Denew's amendment would leave the door very wide open.

In the Senate a resolution of Mr. Boyd was referred to the Judiciary Committee, directing the Attorney-General to forthwith sue to dissolve the Manhattan Railroad Company.

Mr. Grady introduced two bills similar to those favorably reported in the Assembly, one of them authorizing compensation for extra work to State prison converts, and the other increasing the allowance made to prisoners on their discharge. A motion to refer the bills direct to the Committee of the Whole, without going to a standing committee, was defeated. Mr. Grady also introduced a bill creating a Commission to reconsider the vote by which the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Assembly. The bill would have been reported adversely by the House Judiciary Committee rect to the Committee of the Whole, without going to a standing committee, was defeated. Mr. Grady also introduced a bill creating a Commission to reorganize prison labor.

Mr. Pitts moved to take from the table the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Political Assessment bill was boxt, which was carried. A long discussion then ensued on Mr. Grady's amendment to strike out the section which prevents a public officer from receiving a voluntary contribution from another public officer. Without taking action on this amendment the Senate sent the bill to the Judiciary Committee, to be printed with the amendments and put on file to-morrow morroing.

The Assembly returned Senator Jacobs's bill making an appropriation for the approaches to the East River Bridge on the Brooklyn side with an amendment taking away from the bridge trustees the power to make regulations governing the approaches and giving it to the Common Council. On motion of Mr. Russell, the Senate reduced to concur in the amendment, and a conference committee was appointed, consisting of Senators Russell, Jacobs, and F. Lansing.

The Senate reconsidered the vote by which State officers were relieved of their duty as trustees of Union College, and the bill was recommitted to the Judiciary Committee.

Among the bills passed was the Senate bill abolishing canal collectors and imposing their duties on the Superintendent of Public Works; also the Senate bill allowing mutual insurance companies organized in other States to insure to do pusiness in this State.

The Democratic Assemblymen met in caucus this afternoon to consider methods of incilitating business so as to secure an early adjournment. It is proposed to hold afternoon sessions on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 4 to 6 o'clock, and evening sessions on Mondays and Thursdays. A committee was appointed to report to-morrow.

The Assembly Cities Committee considered the Broadway Underground Railroad bili today. Ex-Judge Gardiner and ex-Goy. Walker argued in support of the measure. EX-ASSEMBLYMAN KEEGAN'S ARREST. Taken to Albany on a Warrant for Criminal Libel on Senator Grady. Ex-Assemblyman John Keegan of Astoria delivered a speech on July 8 before the German-American Citizens' Association of Long Island City, in which he charged that Senators Grady and Treanor had "sold out" to the Long Island Ferry Company, and had caused the defeat in the Senate of the bill to reduce the rate of fare on the Hunter's Point and Thirty-fourth Street Ferry to two cents. The speech, with head lines stigmatizing Grady and Treanor as "corrupt Tammany heelers," and accusing them of working for the interests of monopolists, while professing to be anti-monopolists, was printed in the labor paper, the Voice of the People, on the 18th of this month, and copies were sent to all the Senators and Assemblymen by keegan in behalf of the Citizens' Association.

When Senntor Grady learned of this, last week he swore out a warrant for criminal fibel against Keegan, and on Monday night at 7% o'clock Detective Dwyer of Albany agreested Keegan at his home in Astoria while he was preparing to go to a meeting of the Citizens' Association. Keegan refused to give buil before Justice Delehanty in Long Island City, and, after speaking three-quarters of an hour at the meeting, whither he was accompanied by Dwyer, he was taken to Albany on the 11 o'clock train.

Felix Fritsche of the [Citizens' Association at once issued a call for an indignation meeting to be held in Astoria on Saturday night. He also appointed a committee of three to care for Keegan's wife and children until the case against him should be settled. Members of the Citizens' Association declared last night that Koch's "press gag" bill was purposely introduced to enable Grady to arrest Keegan and throw him into an Albany jall. Keegan telegraphed to this city yesterday that he was in prison without counsel or money.

ALBANY, March 27.—Keegan was brough there to day from Astoria to answer the charge of criminal libel, the complainant being Senator Grady. At a preliminary examination this afternoon Keegan declined to answer the charge of criminal libel, the complainant being Senator Grady. At a preliminary examination this afternoon Keegan declined to send for friends or counsel, and delivered a violent and disconnected harangue, which gave the impression that he is suffering from aberration of mind. He was committed to the county jail for further hearing to-morrow. Keegan in behalf of the Citizens' Association.

RENEGADE APACHES.

Gen. Crook's Opinion that they are the Worst Indiana in America. WASHINGTON, March 27 .- Gen. Crook sent the following despatch to Secretary Teller yesterday from Whitpple Barracks, A. T., with regard to the latest Apache raid:

The outrages just reported have been committed by a small raiding party of the Chiricahua Apaches coming back from Mexico, where they have been living since they left here one year ago. Up to the present moment seven persons are known to have been killed on our side of the boundary. The troops are in pursuit. So far as the threat made by the people of Tombstons are conof the boundary. The troops are in pursuit. So far as the threats made by the people of Tombstone are concerned, I am in full sympathy with them, and should be glad to learn that the last of the Chricalinas was under ground. They are an incorrigible lot. Ten years ago, when the other annohe bands were whipped on to the reservation, the Chricalinas were specially exempted by the disvernment from this same subjugation. Since then it is believed that they have killed not less than 1.899 persons in this country and in Mexico. They are one fault by trying lo stir up misched along the agency constantly trying lo stir up misched along the agency across the border this Territory and Mexico must look out for trouble. They are the worst hand of Indians in America. The agency Indians are behaving well. Not one has left the San Carlos Agency, and their assistance can be relied upon in case all of the Chriciahuas return, as they may do if pressed by the Mexican troops or by the desire of plunder.

as they may do if pressed by the Mexican troops or by the desire of plunder.

Secretary Teller replied to Gen. Crook that the interests of the whites and the peaceable Indians alike demanded the subjugation or destruction of the renegade band.

Tecson, March 27.—The Indians attacked the camp of Palmer and Emerick, ten miles east of York's ranch, at 3 o'clock yesterday, Jack Haynes and a stranger were killed. John Emerick is missing, and supposed to have been killed. The other men in camp escaped to York's ranch. The military line between this point, Fort Beyard, and Fort Cummings has been abandoned. It is reported that a large band of Indians is secreted in the mountains north of York's ranch. George Perks, who has just arrived reports that the Indians attacked Irving's Station, seven miles south of York's, killing flyo men.

SANTA FE, March 27.—Berch's camp on the Gila liver, Arizona, was attacked by Indians and two men killed, this morning. Sarong's ranch was attacked, and flye more men killed. The Indians attacked. The Indians attacked is point to join the other hostiles, and together try to force their way into Mexico.

The Indians are believed to be San Carlos renegades moving south to join the other hostiles, and together try to force their way into Mexico. Col. Forsythe has been ordered out with four companies of the Fourth Cavairy. The Mexican General, F. Nero, and a large body of troops, are at Chiuahua and Sonora. In conjunction with the United States troops they will commence a vigorous campaign. Depredations are so far conflined to Arizona.

They will meet Gen. McKen-zie at Albuquerque and reach southern Arizona on Sunday. The Indians killed nine men near Richmond, Arizona, to-day.

A Stockholders' Meeting Must be Called. Judge Freedman gave his decision yesterday upon the motion to continue the preliminary injunction granted in the suit of Josiah C. Reiff against the Western Union and Mutual Union Telegraph Companies restraining the consummation of the lease to the former company of the lines of the latter.

"The failure of the Western Union Company to obtain "The failure of the Western Union Company to obtain the consent of the requisite number of its stockholders at a general meeting dnly called for that purpose, constitutes a defect, but the only defect, in the proceedings taken for the acquirement of the lines of the Mutual Union Company. In consequence, the plaintiff, as an aggrieved stockholder in the Western Union, isjentified to have the injunction against the consumnation of the lease and the payment of the consideration, or any part thereof, continued pending the action. Leave, however, should expressly be granted to the Western Union Company to convene a general meeting of its stockholders for the purpose of procuring the consent to the lease of the requisite number of stockholders in the manner required by the statute, and the order should provide that if such consent is obtained, on the proof of such fact any of the dissolution of the injunction."

The largest cattle sale ever effected in this country was that by which recently 75,000 head were sold by Ikards & Haroid Bros. of Texas to the Francklyn Land and Cattle Company. The latter company is com-posed of Chas. G. Francklyn, Frank G. Brown, President posed of Chas. G. Francklyn, Frank G. Brown, President of the Bassick Mining Company, and R. B. Groom & Son of Lexington, Ky. It owns over 600,000 acres of land, part of it lying on the banks of the Canadian River, in what is known as the Fanhandle of Texas, between Mexico and the Indian Territory, and has there some 3,000 head of cattle. It also owns a large herof of fine shorthorn eartie, at present in charge of Groom & Son, in Kentneky, which will be kept up to breed with the native Texan cartle. Messre lkards & Harold Rive are owners of claimants of a ranch on Isads now in dispute between Texas and the indian Territory, where the boundary is still unsettled, and have deemed it best to get off their stock which now passes to the ranch of the Francklyn Commany. It is understood that the sum paid for the 75,000 cattle was very nearly $1,000,000.

CHICAGO, March 27 .- The second game of the international balk line tournament was played this afternoon by William Sexton and Alonzo Morris, with light attendance. Morris won the lead, counted, and stopped at four points. Sexton won applause by a run of 60. In his half of the seventh inning, by delicate work, he ran 40 points when the bails came together, and before they got away he scored 40 more. After the break he got the balls back on the same balk line in two shots, and touched them with feather strokes until he had made 111. When he quit on an unfortunate miss his average was nearly 30. In the seventeenth in-ning Sexton again showed wonderful efficiency

ARRIVAL OF FOUR JEANRETTE SUM-VIVORS AND ENSIGN HUNT. The Story of the Loss of Mr. Putuam, Man-

ter of the Redgers, Told by his Comrade and Companion-The Valu Search for Min. Four survivors of the Jeannette expedition arrived in New York yesterday on the steamship Westphalis. The steamship was a day ahead of time, and the arrangements for welcoming the voyagers were not complete. The officers of the Fifth regular Artillery at Fort Hamilton had been invited as a compliment to Ensign H. J. Hunt of the Rodgers search expedition, who returned with the men from the Jeannette, and whose father is Gen. Hunt, commander of the Fifth Artillery. Lieut. Jacques, aide to Commodore Upshur, com-mandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and Chief Engineer Melville went down to Quarantine in the navy yard cutter Triana and took off the party from the West-phalia. The Jeannette survivors are Firemen James H. Bartlett and John Lauterbach and Seamen Herbert W. Leach and Frank Manson. They were of Melville's party. All are in perfect health, and they have grown

All are in perfect health, and they have grown stout and ruddy on their voyage home. Ensign Hunt said that Lieuts. Harber and Schuetze left the Lena River some weeks ago with the bodies of Capt. De Long and his nine companions, and have probably arrived near Yakutsk.

Of the loss of Mr. Putnam, Master of the Rodgers, Ensign Hunt said:

"We had started together from a native village on the west bank of St Lawrence Bay. The first day out we had a heavy gale of wind, and were forced to turn back. Putnam decided to return to the village that we had left in preference to one which was nearer, because there was no dog food at the nearer village. On our way back Putnam's sled, on which I was riding, broke down. I was transferred to another sled. After we reached the western side of the bay the wind increased very much, and when we arrived at the point for turning up to the village Putnam kept straight on, not knowing the locality. Arriving at the village, I found he was not there. I endeavored to Induce the natives to go on, but they refused. Threats andentreaties had no effect. The following morning, the weather having somewhat moderated, we started a search. One native was despatched to the next village, two to search the surrounding country, while Mr. Zane and I scarched the coast. In the evening we all came together with no result. The following day I went on to the North Head to report the circumstances to Waring. I met Waring on the road, and told him that I came together with no result than had been saved, and it was so reported to Capt. Berry. The news was contradicted and it turned out that Putnam was lost through the ice. I asked him if I should remain and join in the search. No, he said, report to Capt. Berry at once. It was seven days' journey from North Head to Eetestian. While en route I heard that Putnam had been saved, and it was so reported to Capt. Berry. The news was contradicted and it turned out that Putnam was lost. Mr. Waring, senior officer, made fiv
